

FOLDING DOORS

An accordion door

An accordion door enables opening the space to the maximum and characterizes for the essential advantage of wooden door – a warm construction.

All panels of this door can be folded to the left or the right side. Therefore, a folding wooden door is a great choice when you need a maximum opening of the space, e.g. when you want to connect your living-room with your outdoor terrace.

Another advantage of this door is a lowered threshold. However, when choosing a folding door model, you should consult with a specialist for the available panel sizes. Please also keep in mind that this door is slightly harder to open than other types of terrace doors.

